I wanted no interview; never asked: @EleanorTerrett did because she's the ax on @Ripple beat. But we are now doing a story on how much money @Ripple will be paying --if ANY --to settle part of the @SECGov case it lost. Where are they getting it? From the balance sheet? XRP sales? twitter.com/Asamtm/status...

Charlie, happy to come into the studio any time to discuss the facts. Any attempt by the SEC to paint this as some sort of split victory is pathetic. They lost on everything that matters (as many lawyers have noted, not just Ripple's).

To your question here about potential penalties - that's up to the Court to decide, not the SEC. You very well know this case was never about fines or penalties, it was about establishing the non-security status of XRP. We won. They lost.

The most important thing in this case is to prove that XRP is not safe, and this matter has been proven by the power of a fair judiciary 🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏🙏

Am I missing something here? The sec was arguing the sale of xrp was done in manner which made it a security in some cases not the actual asset being a security?? What am I missing
